

ALMADA

C A P I T A L

Job Title: Quantitative Analyst Intern 6-12 months

Location: Geneva

Job Type: Internship

Industry: Financial Services, Hedge Fund, Macro Trading, Commodities Trading

About the Company:

Almada Capital is an absolute return Commodity Macro investment management firm based in Geneva, Switzerland. We leverage data-driven analysis and deep industry expertise to generate alpha across commodities.

Job Summary:

Apply the scientific method to create models and analysis of a broad variety of systems, including physical systems, markets and the composite. Apply quantitative analysis and machine learning to a wide variety of datasets, primarily structured timeseries.

Key Responsibilities:

- Use python and associated ecosystem to create and improve quantitative models
- Perform ad-hoc quantitative research at a high pace on a wide range of themes
- Collaborate with team to support their research and yours
- Prepare detailed reports, presentations, and market outlooks for internal stakeholders

Qualifications & Experience:

- Math-focussed degree: hard science, engineering, math, comp-sci
- Strong coding background and fundamental grasp of maths and probability, some exposure to stats
- Strong ability to communicate and understand complex ideas

Ideal Candidate:

- Highly curious person
- Self motivated and determined
- Ability to reason from first principles

Compensation & Benefits:

- Opportunity to seek the truth in commodity and market systems
- Professional development and educational opportunities
- Dynamic and fast-paced work environment with growth potential

If you are passionate about understanding complex systems and have a keen analytical mind, we invite you to apply and become a part of our innovative team. Please submit your resume and a cover letter detailing your relevant experience and interest in the role (enquiries@almadacap.com).